

University of Rijeka

Department of Biotechnology

Faculty of Law

Inter-University Centre of Excellence Opatija

organise

Scientific Colloquium

Personalized medicine – quo vadis?

Tuesday, July 7, 2015.

University of Rijeka, R. Matejčić 2, Campus, Rijeka

- 9:30 Prof. dr. sci. Krešimir Pavelić, University of Rijeka, Department of Biotechnology, Prof. dr. sci. Nada Bodiroga-Vukobrat, University of Rijeka Faculty of Law
Introduction
- 9:45 Prof. dr. sci. Đuro Josić, University of Rijeka, Department of Biotechnology
Omics methods in personalized cancer treatments
- 10:05 Doc. dr. sci. Željka Maglica, University of Rijeka, Department of Biotechnology
Monitoring individual cells: toward personalized medicine
- 10:25 Doc. dr. sci. Koraljka Gall Trošelj, Ruđer Bošković Institute, Zagreb
Issues posed in personalized medicine for oncology
- 10:45 Doc. dr. sci. Antonio Starčević, Faculty of Food Technology and Biotechnology, University of Zagreb
Personalized medicine diagnostics - sustainability vs innovation
- 11:05 Discussion
- 11:25 Coffee Break
- 11:45 Prof. dr. sci. Romana Pacia, University of Trieste
Biobanks - legal aspects
- 12:05 Dr. sci. Jasmina Mutabžija, POSLuH d.o.o.
Embryonic Stem Cell Patents and Personalized Medicine

12:25 Prof. dr. sci. Marija Kaštelan Mrak, University of Rijeka Faculty of Economics
Economic and social aspects of Personalised Medicine

12:45 Dr. sci. Dražen Massari: Thalassotherapia, Opatija:
Personalized medicine in rheumatology – breakthrough after all?

13:00 Closing Remarks

This colloquium is supported by the Croatian Science Foundation project No. 5709 „Perspectives of maintaining the social state: towards the transformation of social security systems for individuals in personalized medicine“.