About RIDOC 2025

Aim of the Conference

RIDOC is intended for doctoral candidates who wish to present and test their preliminary research findings before academics and practicing lawyers, as well as to discuss these findings with their peers at international level. Eligible speakers are those enrolled in a doctorate study or a doctoral school on the day of the deadline for applications. The topic of their doctoral dissertation has to be in the field of law or other field provided the topic is closely related to law. The conference language is English.

Exchange your research, test your hypothesis, participate in discussions, grow your scholarly network, open your horizons.

Conference Structure

The core of RIDOC – the doctoral candidates' presentations – are organised in several thematic sessions. The sessions are chaired by panels of recognised academics and practitioners in law, who ask questions, comment or otherwise intervene providing feedback on the various aspects of the candidate's presented research. RIDOC is planned as an onsite and online event. Lunch and refreshments will be provided by the organiser. Evening social gathering is also part of the RIDOC tradition.

Previous Conferences

The RIDOC conference series has commenced in 2016 and since then it has been making a powerful impact on the international and mostly European doctoral discussions. More information about the previous conferences is available at the RIDOC website.
